The Great Texas Catamaran Race will be running up the Texas Coast for the 8th time in as many years in 2010. The race draws some of the countries top sailors from both East and West Coast as well as the Gulf.

The race is run in four "legs" over four days covering over 300 miles. Each leg must start and finish through the Surf in front of spectators that will be cheering on their favorite team. Each team consists of two crewmembers on each boat to do battle with the Open Ocean on an 18 to 22 foot Catamaran with no shelter from the elements. The teams race their boats up the coast line to the next check point each day to complete each leg. They must rely on their skill and guts to get across the finish line each day. These teams consist of some of the most courageous athletes in the country. It is a truly exciting spectacle to watch.
